Last spring, the Ravenscroft lacrosse program got creative and began playing a set of games with a junior varsity unit. The experiment proved to be a wonderful experience, and the Ravens will be expanding their JV schedule in 2015.

"I think that we have found a way to take a difficult situation and turn it into a positive one," explained Coach Sandy Kapatos. "The current environment discourages us from having an official junior varsity team, but this approach allows us to play a number of games within the varsity structure. We were very happy with the way things went last year."

In 2015, the team will play seven games, including four at home. The roster will include non-starters from the varsity team, with sophomores and freshmen making up the bulk of the team.

"Our younger players will have the benefit of both worlds," Kapatos explained. "The JV team will be practicing and competing daily with the accomplished varsity players, and they will be coached by our varsity staff. The daily challenges will hasten their lacrosse development as well as their understanding and acceptance of our expectations and culture. Last season's experiment resulted in a very positive experience for all our boys."
